

PEACE CRISIS DUE ON MONDAY

A Bright Day Makes The Envoys Seem Happier In Their Present Work.

SOME ARTICLES ARE YET PENDING

Sakalin And The Big Indemnity Cause Considerable Friction In The Past Conferences.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Portsmouth, Aug. 17.—In a bright sun on muggy roads the envoys of Russia and Japan started early for the navy-yard, where today's deliberations may determine finally the question of peace or continued war. There was no indication on the countenances of the distinguished representatives that problems of unusual importance are pending. The striking change of the weather conditions from black and depressing clouds and atmosphere of yesterday to a clear crisp morning was a tonic. Witte announced he felt as good as new. Just before the departure the Russian secretary, Koroscovitz, declared the business before the conference might be concluded in two days. The prospects are splendid for the party getting away on Monday or Tuesday, he said, unless an unlooked-for adjournment takes place. He explained there are four great questions left for consideration, two of which—the indemnity and ceding of Sakhalin—might require a longer discussion than the others.

Jap Envoys Confident
Portsmouth, Aug. 17.—"Can you give us any idea how long the conference will continue?" Envoy Witte was asked this morning. "Ah, no, I am not good at guessing," smilingly answered the statesman. He continued: "We expect to take up today articles nine, ten, eleven and twelve and perhaps article five, which we passed over the other day." Almonu Sato, chief secretary of the Japanese envoys, expressed a positive opinion of the outcome, saying peace would be the result. "We are getting along fast," he said. Sato admitted it was the intention to take up all clauses before going back to the disputed Sakhalin point.

Make Statement
At one o'clock the following statement was made: "At the morning session of the conference the plenipotentiaries discussed article nine. Not being able to reach a unanimous decision the conference decided to record divergence of its views and proceeded to the discussion of the remaining articles." Article nine is believed to relate to the war indemnity.

Crisis Due Next Monday.
From an authoritative source it is now possible to forecast with a fair degree of accuracy that the crisis will come on next Monday. Articles 7 and 8, dealing with the fate of the Chinese Eastern railroad having been disposed of, there remains in addition to the cession of Sakhalin, which was passed over, the question of indemnity, which comes up as Article 9, the limitation of Russia's sea power in the far east, the surrender of the interned warships, and the grant to Japan of fishing rights on the littoral north of Vladivostok.

To all except the latter, to which Russia will agree, a negative answer has been returned, absolute in the case of indemnity and Sakhalin. Perhaps both the other may be modified.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR TRUE RECIPROCITY

Cummins of Iowa, Makes Seathing Attack Upon the Present Administration.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 17.—The reciprocity convention this morning listened to some seathing words from Gov. Cummins of Iowa and heard a report from the committee on resolutions and deferred action on the latter until this afternoon. The resolutions as presented recognize the principle of protection as the established policy of our country but advocate that reciprocal concessions be made of dual minimum and maximum tariff as the most adequate practical method of relieving the present strained situation, and that the question of schedules of items is to be considered in such reciprocal concessions preferably to be suggested by a permanent tariff commission to be created by congress and appointed by the President which shall consist of economic, industrial and commercial experts and urging early action by congress. Cummins in his speech took a crack at Shaw, saying the secretary had committed a grave offense against propriety by saying a treaty with France gives France everything and the United States nothing. "He has never read tariff," said the speaker. "The welfare of a few jewelers was considered in the senate at a sacrifice to the welfare of millions of farmers."

SAYS HIS DOUBLE IS GUILTY PERSON

Alleged "Bluebeard" and Circulator of Obscene Pictures on Trial in Brooklyn.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Brooklyn, N. Y., August 17.—Fredrick E. Carlton, the young man whose name has been in the newspapers of the country for the past several weeks because he is alleged to be a modern "Bluebeard," as well as a circulator of obscene pictures, was taken into court here today for a hearing of some of the charges against him. Carlton has devised a queer argument of defense, declaring that the person for whom the police are looking is his double and probably a relative. He declares that he has located the man for whom he was arrested and will prove the charges against himself false.

CHINESE ATTACK DUTCHMEN AND KILL MANY OF THE DEFENDERS OF THE FORTS

Amsterdam, Aug. 17.—A dispatch from Batavia says the Chinese attacked the Dutch of Rambang and twenty-four of the defenders were killed and six wounded.

ETHAN ALLEN IS EULOGIZED

Vice-President Fairbanks Speaks At Dedication Of Shaft Of Hero Of 1776.

TRIBUTE TO THE FIRST PIONEERS

Fairbanks Grows Eloquent In Telling Of The Sacrifices Made By The Patriots Of Revolutionary Days.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
country and their countrymen:
Courageous Men to the Fore.
"No exigency has ever confronted us when courageous men did not arise to meet it: when patriots did not put aside all thought of mere self and consecrate themselves first of all to the welfare of their fellow men. We do well to recall them and to learn anew the lesson they taught. We do well to return to the day when our fathers in the long ago labored and fought for freedom, in order that we may better preserve that which they so splendidly achieved. We are joint heirs of this heroism and their sacrifices, their wisdom and their courage, and we should never fail to manifest our profound appreciation of our priceless inheritance."

Ethan Allen Eulogized.
The speaker referred to Ethan Allen in glowing terms, saying that his seizure of Ticonderoga gave to the name of Allen undying renown.

"The memory of the struggle of those who came hither into the wilderness," Mr. Fairbanks continued, "their privations, their sufferings and their sacrifices, should inspire us with higher endeavor. By contemplating what was done by Ethan Allen and his immortal compatriots in the long ago, we can better appreciate the incomparable privileges we enjoy and we can be better prepared to enjoy them."

"The men who fought here, those who bravely fought against nature and the enemies of the republican government, were liberty-loving and God-fearing. They firmly believed in a government predicated on the consent of the governed. They devoutly believed in the saving grace of the Christian religion and they likewise believed that the sure foundation of the states is an educated citizenship."

In his address Mr. Fairbanks congratulated the members of the Vermont Society of the Sons of the American Revolution upon the excellent manner in which they had carried to completion their tribute in remembrance of one who wrought well in the early pioneer days of this people and of this State.

"Such evidence as this of regard for those who toiled in the cause of freedom," the Vice President declared, "is an honor to the people who erect it, and will abide as one of the potent influences which make for a better citizenship. American history is filled with the names of patriots who were born of every crisis. No people were ever more blessed than we have been throughout our brief yet great career with men who were ready to do all and suffer all, if need be, for their country."

Wednesday was chosen for the dedicatory exercises as being peculiarly appropriate, as it marked the one hundred and twenty-eighth anniversary of the battle of Bennington and was a legal holiday in the State. Thousands of people were here from all over the State, including General McLane, of New Hampshire, and many regiments of militia.

Mr. Fairbank's Speech.
In his address Mr. Fairbanks congratulated the members of the Vermont Society of the Sons of the American Revolution upon the excellent manner in which they had carried to completion their tribute in remembrance of one who wrought well in the early pioneer days of this people and of this State.

CENSUS SHOWS THAT RACE SUICIDE EXISTS ALL OVER

Birth Rate In The United States Has Been On The Decline Since 1860.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
tucky and Missouri—did the proportion decrease in each of the five decades.
City vs. Country.
In 1900, for the United States as a whole, the proportion of children was only two-thirds as great in cities as in the country districts. In the north Atlantic division, however, it was almost as great in the cities as in the country. In the southern division it is hardly more than half as large in the cities as in the country, while in the far west the difference is intermediate in amount.

A comparison is made between the proportion of children born of native mothers and the proportion of children born of foreign mothers. In 1900 the former proportion was 462, the latter was 710, the difference indicating the greater fecundity of foreign born women.

Increase in Natives.
In the Atlantic divisions there was a slight increase in the proportion of children born to native white mothers, and in the south central division there was but a slight decrease. The decrease for the whole country, therefore, was the result largely of the great decrease in the north, central, and western divisions.

The decrease in the proportion of children born to native white women was confined chiefly to cities.

The proportion of negro children born to negro women was largest in 1880 and smallest in 1900. There has been uniformly a larger proportion of negro children than of white children. That difference more than doubled between 1860 and 1880, but in 1900 it was less than half what it was in 1860 and less than at any other census except in 1860.

SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY OF SANTIAGO'S FALL HONORED
Spanish War Veterans Celebrated Occasion at Washington, D. C., Today.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, August 17.—Spanish-American War Veterans celebrated the seventh anniversary of the capture of Santiago here today. Speeches were made by Capt. C. S. Domer and others of prominence.

Washington, Aug. 17.—There has been a persistent decline of the birth rate in the United States since 1860, according to a bulletin issued by the census bureau. The bulletin was prepared by Professor Walter F. Willcox, of Cornell University.

The bulletin shows that at the beginning of the nineteenth century the children under 10 years of age constituted one-third and at the end less than one-fourth of the total population. The decrease in this proportion began as early as the decade 1810 to 1820, and continued uninterrupted, though at varying rates, in each succeeding decade.

Between 1850 and 1860 the proportion of children to women between 15 and 49 years, the child-bearing age, increased, but since 1860 it has decreased constantly. In 1860 the number of children under 5 years of age to 1,000 women was 624; in 1900 it was only 474.

Decline in Sections.
Considered sectionally it is found that in the north and west there has been a more or less regular decline, while in the south the change has been less regular and the decline less marked. In 1900 the smallest proportion of children was in the District of Columbia. The next smallest proportion was Massachusetts. The largest proportion was in North Dakota and Indian Territory.

In the general decrease between 1890 and 1900 not a single State of the north Atlantic division took part. In seven other States, also, there was no decrease. In only six States—Illinois, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Missouri—did the proportion decrease in each of the five decades.

NEW YORK DAY OBSERVED AT LEWIS AND CLARK FAIR
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Portland, Ore., August 17.—The special state today at the Lewis and Clark Exposition was New York, natives of that state being there in large numbers visiting the fair. Gov. M. J. CITIZEN WRITES FOR PUBLICATION

ASKS QUESTIONS REGARDING THE AUTOMOBILES.

THE PEDESTRIAN'S RIGHTS

Is the Speed Limit Exceeded in the City of Janesville?—Hard Question to Decide.

Leaving the consideration of the salary "Early to Bed and Rise" question for mature consideration and reflection, "Citizen" now turns to the marvel of the twentieth century—the automobile—and its driver.

Editor Gazette: A bruised body, broken or crushed limbs or skull, broke ribs, neck or back—aye—death!

Victims—Children playing about, enfeebled adults, cripples on crutches, the old or aged usually afflicted with defective eyes or hearing, the totally deaf, or near so blind, a mother, baby in arms and two or three small children trying to cross the busy streets with her charge.

City of Janesville, who will be blamed. The helpless victims, usually because they are in the way, although having the right of way. Of course, pedestrians have the legal right to cross any street, anywhere, and at any time, with ordinary care and diligence to keep out of the way of truck and wagon teams, bicycles, street cars, vehicles, etc., having the right of way.

Now, Mr. Editor, with this prelude, and in the interest of humanity, we venture to predict the something, or more of the to be, lamentable things which will be sure to occur unless the speed of the autos on our streets is checked. Better be sure than sorry. The speed limit for autos on our streets is not to exceed six miles per hour. How about some speeding twenty-five miles per hour down Milwaukee street, and fifteen or twenty miles up—the latter speed being witnessed a few evenings since at 9:00 p. m. Why all this trial of speed and skill on Milwaukee street? Is it to show? Pedestrians are not anxious to see such circuses—the clowns are not applauded.

These auto drivers making lightning stops, on a crowded thoroughfare, reminds us of a young, ambitious man, who was employed as a locomotive fireman, on the Milwaukee & Northern road, making this city his home. In the course of time this young man was promoted to the position of locomotive engineer, a position of pride and honor as well as today. This young man had not neglected the intricate duties and responsibilities of his new position, but was buried in almost the one idea, that fast running and lightning stops were the prerequisites for a first-class engineer. On his return home from his first trip, he attempted to put his engine in the roundhouse. The turn table was not set right for the incoming track—consequently he and the engine were buried in the turn table pit. He made a lightning stop—blocked business on this line for ten hours—saved his neck but lost his job. This occurred twenty years ago; we witnessed the scene.

Is the driver of the auto morally, legally, or financially responsible in case of an accident? Is there any compensation for the victim if the auto-scorcher is responsible for the whole category of liabilities? Is there any punishment sufficient, or money enough on earth, to compensate or remunerate a human, crippled for life? We think not.

Now, finally—if these verbose sentences will be the means of saving the finger end of a human being, they are not placed in vain. The autos have come to stay. The well, if ending well. We must all die, but most of us have no desire to be maimed or killed. Our prayer.

Yours very sincerely,

"CITIZEN."

KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Or Your Hair Will Fall Out Till You Become Bald.

Modern science has discovered that dandruff is caused by a germ that digs up the scalp in scales, as it burrows down to the roots of the hair, where it destroys the hair's vitality, causing falling hair, and ultimately, baldness. After Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany, discovered the dandruff germ, all efforts to find a remedy failed until the great laboratory discovery was made which resulted in Newbro's Herpicide. It alone of all other hair preparations kills the dandruff germ. Without dandruff hair grows luxuriantly. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

M'LEOD PLAYS WITH WONDERFUL SKILL

Rockford Professional Exhibits Marvelous Playing at Chicago Tournament.

Frederick Cavendish Robertson McLeod of Rockford succeeded in tying Lawrence Auchterlonie of Glen View for the lead in the first half of the professional golfers' tournament at Riverside yesterday, each making the four rounds of the course in 157 strokes. Robert Simpson, the home professional, made a 46 for his first round, but came back with 37, 36 and 35—the 36 being best round of the day—and his score was just a stroke shy of the leaders. Twenty-two members of the Western Professional Golfers' Association competed. Five prizes, amounting to $300, are offered by the club, as follows: $125, $75, $50, $30 and $20. The course was in excellent shape. McLeod is well known to Janesville golfers, having played on the St. Louis links many times. His success in the professional field is watched with interest by his friends here.

Railway News in General.

The Federal Court (Canadian Pacific Railway Company vs. Elliott, 137 Fed. Rep. 904) holds that a car repairer who neglects to protect by signals the car on which he is engaged at work, is guilty of such negligence as will preclude a recovery for injuries, and will be held to have assumed risk of danger from other cars bumping his car.

The Rockford Industrial Railroad Company has been incorporated in Illinois, with a capital stock of $10,000. The intention is to construct a belt railroad in Rockford. The incorporators and first board of directors are: Sidney F. Andrews, Andrew P. Humburg, Charles E. Perich, W. E. Clavin and W. C. Bruen, all of Chicago.

Legal measures have been taken by Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad, a Southern Pacific subsidiary line, to prevent the Railroad Commission of Louisiana from enforcing the proposed rates on rice, which would greatly reduce the company's revenues. The company's complaint says that the radical changes proposed are not justified by the conditions, and that they would not allow the road enough revenue to pay the cost of moving the rice. One item in the complaint sets forth that the proposed tariff "violates the fundamental principles of rate making, in that it prescribes the same rate on branches as on the main line."

Regulated Price of Meat.

In 1592, in England, butchers were compelled by law to sell their beef for a half penny a pound and mutton for three farthings. The butchers of London sold penny pieces of beef for the relief of the poor, every piece two pounds and a half, sometimes three pounds for a penny.

Carle of this city. Vocal and instrumental music will be rendered by able talent and the drum corps will be present. All ex-soldiers and sailors, the ladies of the Relief Corps and the general public are invited to attend. The call is signed by M. Chamberlain, president and W. J. McIntyre, secretary.

KID AMMERMAN IS UNDER PEACE BONDS

Davenport Puglist, Who Challenged Art Francis of This City to a Six Round Bout.

That Art Francis, the Janesville puglist, will not be given the opportunity of meeting Kid Ammerman of Davenport, Iowa, who has challenged the former to a six round bout, seems probable. Francis' manager, A. Roststein, wished to pull the match off in Janesville or nearby but finding the laws of the state opposed to such sport, changed the place of the scrap to Davenport. The authorities in the Iowa city learned of the proposed match and have placed Ammerman under bonds of the peace. Mgr. Roststein is now in hopes of holding the fight in some other state. The bout was to be of six rounds for a decision for one hundred dollars a side bet and a division of the gate receipts at 75 and 25 per cent. The weight was to be between 120 and 135 pounds.

THE LITTLE ISLANDS GALORE

Six Day Trip on Green Bay, Lake Michigan, Lake Huron and the St. Mary's River.

"This world is a mighty small place after all," remarked a gentleman who has just returned from a trip to Mackinac Island and the "Soo." "I was walking along the streets in Mackinac last week when I should I run across but old Burr Robbins. Some old Burr that used to live here and run a circus. Looks as young as he did twenty years ago and showed all the signs of being a prospector. Then at the 'Soo' a former resident of Janesville now located in South Dakota. Nor did the discovery of Janesville people end there, for at Fish Creek, on the Green Bay side of Wisconsin, there was C. F. Yates and wife down at the dock to meet the boat we were in and escort Mr. and Mrs. James Waddle, who were on the boat with us, to their summer home. Mr. Yates looked like an Indian as regards complexion and said he was thoroughly enjoying himself. He certainly had chosen one of God's beauty spots for a summer home."

Wonderful Sights

The Janesville party referred to above left Green Bay a week ago today on the Eugene Hart, one of the boats of the Green Bay Transportation company. Captain Charles Gray was in command and a more courteous, considerate Captain could not be found. He was sympathetically personified and no lone lady passenger needed comfort, for his big heart includes them all. George Hart was the purser, ever ready to further the amusement of the passengers, from a Badger fight to an impromptu vaudeville entertainment. But the beauty of the whole trip is the wonderful scenery one sees—the magnificent lights, the charming little islands, the glory of Mackinac and the wonderful machinations of the great "Soo" canal. Six days were consumed on the trip and each day brought new delights and new marvels to be witnessed. The air was delightful, the sea fairly smooth, and the passenger list contained the names of a jolly crowd.

The Personnel

Foremost in the list of passengers was "Main Deck" Reilly, a prominent Fond du Lac lawyer, who perched was celery foam and a great dread of seasickness. Then there was Judge Monahan of Green Bay, who was famous for his tripe sayings and his careless abandon of judicial dignity in being party to a famous "badger" fight on Sunday night. Even three Catholic priests joined in the fun about and enjoyed the masquerade ball, the birthday party, the mock trial and the vaudeville show as much as did any one.

A party composed of prominent Green Bay people, among whom were Mrs. O'Kieff, Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan, James Hoellier, Miss Spear, the Captain's niece; and were the leaders of the "doings" aboard. There was not a dull minute during the whole trip. Someone had something going all the time and then the beautiful scenery filled the interim.

The Trip

Leaving Green Bay about noon Thursday the first stop was at Shoggon Bay. Then followed Marinette and Menominee and Escanaba and Manitowish the following day. At Manitowish a wonderful and thrilling electrical storm added to the splendor of the heavens and the trip from this port to Harbor Springs was full of dread for many and seasickness for a few. Petoskey followed before breakfast and then the run up along the beautiful Michigan coast by day-light to Mackinac. Here the entire ship company took carriages and made the nine-mile drive about the island seeing the wonders of nature. Leaving here at six the trip to the St. Mary's river was all too short and the progress up this stream at night with the lights showing the channel, the big freighters, the passenger steamers, was impressive to say the least. Sunday morning saw the party at the "Soo" canal, the greatest engineering wonder of the century.

COMING Attractions

Tonight's Attraction.

A dramatic organization headed by George Klimt and under the management of Klimt and Gazzolo will present a new play, "Big Hearted Jim," in this city this evening and the general excellence of the attractions which Mr. Klimt, with Frank Gazzolo as Bess, a western wild flower, who "never had no other name," and an Indian girl who is an heiress, Liddy, a rough diamond, are other interesting figures of the story.

"Over Niagara Falls," the big scenic production of Rowland and manager, have had on the road, makes it virtually certain that their new production will be one of the best of the season. The Messrs. Klimt and Gazzolo have the high standard of their On the Bridge at Midnight to maintain and they undoubtedly will not fail to do so. "Big Hearted Jim" is a western American comedy-melodrama in which humor plays a prominent part.

Clifford, will be the attraction at the Myers Grand on Monday, Aug. 21. This firm of prominent theatrical managers have equipped the play with a most gorgeous display of scenery and mechanical and electrical effects, prominent among which is an exact reproduction of the Falls themselves which it is said to be very realistic. A strong company of well known

CARICATURE SKETCH OF FRANCIS B. LOOMIS
Francis B. Loomis, assistant secretary of state.

Forty Years Ago.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, August 17, 1865.—Liquid Glass.—Such is the name of an article for mending crockery advertised elsewhere, which, if we are not mistaken, is one of the best things of the kind in use. We have seen it tried and it works like a charm.

New Bell for the Congregational Church.—The efforts of the Congregational society to raise money for the purchase of a new bell, have been crowned with success, and the bell has been ordered and is expected here very soon. The society did a good thing when they inaugurated this enterprise.

The Thirteenth Regiment.—Capt. Nurcross of this city, who has just received a number of letters from the 13th Regiment, informs us that on the 1st inst. they were at Green Lake,

If you have Pride in White Clothes

you have use for Peosta soap. No boiling with Peosta; less rubbing and that means less wear. There is no soap so good for flannels, linen, doilies, shirtwaists and the like, because no other soap cleans with so little rubbing. Economy is dollars and time.

That All Important Bath Room

You have often heard people remark "If I were ever to build, I would plan my bath room first and would not put all my money into the parlor with all its finery." That is good common sense sentiment, for the bath room is the most important of all the household.

We would like to help you plan your bath room and will gladly quote you prices on "Standard" Ware, the best and most sanitary fixtures made.

F. E. GREEN, Plumber,

Sioux and Cheyenne Indians on the upper Missouri. General Curtis and Sibley and H. W. Reed are the other members of the commission. The friends of Mr. Guernsey will be glad to hear of this mark of the government's confidence and approbation.

Cholera Goods.—At the clothing establishment of Messrs. Echlin & Foote, on Milwaukee street, we caught our eyes yesterday on some new fall goods just received by them. The ware of beautiful texture and would tempt the most fastidious lovers of nice clothing. You can just go and see them and they will not charge you a cent.

What Shall We Do With Them.—Messrs. M. C. Smith & Co. are unloading piles on piles of goods in front of their store, almost blocking up the sidewalk. If those in want of things in their line will go and take away a part of the goods and pay for them, there will be no need to arrest them for obstructing the sidewalk.

RESCUES FIANCE, BUT DROWNS

Philadelphia Girl Sinks Exhausted After Placing Man in Safety.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 17.—After carrying her fiance, M. F. Alexander, to their overturned canoe and seeing him safe, Miss Annie B. Ober, exhausted, sank to death in the river just as a rescuing party arrived. After being taken ashore Alexander tried to commit suicide. Their boat capsized while turning aside for a launch, and Alexander could not swim.

New York, Aug. 17.—A temporary injunction restraining the making of a contract between New York city and the Pennsylvania Steel Company for the construction of the new Manhattan bridge between New York and Brooklyn was granted.

Heavy Fall of Rain.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 17.—In a storm in West Virginia five inches of rain fell in two and a half hours. Railway bridges were washed away and landslides in the mountains blocked tracks at several points.

Arrest Alleged Wire Tappers.

New York police made a raid on a den of alleged swindling wiretappers and arrested nine.

Florists Compete for Honor

American Society Agrees to Meet Next Year at Dayton, O.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists began its second day's session here with an unusually large attendance. Particular interest was displayed in the report of the judges in the prize essay contest, the subject being "The Ideal Employer." The first prize was awarded S. S. Skidelsky of Philadelphia, the second to Henry Eicholz of Waynesboro, Pa., and the third to J. Austin Shaw of New York City. Following the nomination of officers Dr. B. T. Galloway, chief of the bureau of plant industry, delivered an illustrated lecture on horticulture and horticulture. The visiting ladies were under a luncheon by Mrs. J. R. Freeman, wife of the vice president of the society, and afterward taken on a drive through the city and the valley of Rock Creek. The next meeting will be held in Dayton, O.

Wisconsin Postmasters.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 17.—The State convention of the Wisconsin Postmasters' Association was called to order by Postmaster E. W. Keyes, of Madison, president of the association. Postmaster General Cortelyou sent a letter of regret, promising to send a representative in his place.

Western Pastor for Ohio.

Denver, Col., Aug. 17.—Rev. James S. Montgomery has resigned from the pastorate of Trinity M. E. church to accept a call of the Broad Street M. E. church at Columbus, Ohio.

Heart Weakness.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has made many hearts well after they have been pronounced hopeless. It has completely cured thousands, and will almost invariably cure or benefit every case of heart disease.

Short breath, pain around heart, palpitation, fluttering, dizzy, fainting and smothering spells should not be neglected. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and see how quick you will be relieved.

It cannot make a new heart, but will restore a sick one by strengthening the heart nerves and muscles, relieving the unnatural strain, and restoring its vitality.

"I had a very bad case of heart trouble. For six months I could not work. Last July I was plowing corn and feeling bad all day; in the afternoon in plowing one row I had to lay down, or fall down, three times. My heart throbed as though it would burst through, and I had difficulty in getting my breath. I purchased a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and before I had used half of it I could lay down and sleep all night. Previously I had to get up from bed to turn myself at night. I have taken several bottles, and my heart is as regular as clock work. I feel like a new man, and can work considerably for an old man. 314 E. McGill, Frost, Ohio.

RAILWAY RATE MAKING.

"To place the management of railway rates in the hands of anybody that is not fitted by experience to fully determine what is a fair rate would be unbusinesslike, and, beyond question, detrimental to the fair earning capacity of the railways affected by such regulation.

"We believe the preferential, discriminations, and secret rebates are unfair, and all point to the necessity for rate maintenance rather than rate making. We believe also that in the former the railways join with the public demand for an equal, fair, and non-discriminative rate to all shippers. It is only those who favor possible discrimination that might arise through governmental interference that are in favor of the proposition to make rates by arbitrary power of law.

"The making of rates for our railways is a far reaching proposition, and includes many hundreds of trained men, who devote their entire time to it. The best judges of the cost of railway operation are the men who are held responsible for results.

"Railway rate makers do not fix a rate that will prohibit sending products to market, and the rate is sometimes fixed so low for this very reason that business is carried at cost, and in some instances at less than cost. This is balanced by increased trade in other lines that makes good what losses are thus sustained. Railways have not destroyed commerce by prohibitive rates."

"These practical suggestions are from the pen of P. H. Morris, Grand Master Railway Trainmen. They are timely because just now there is sweeping over the country a tidal wave of the ore-fuel reform and the railway companies represent the one industry which every man feels competent to attack and regulate.

"Rate regulation is the slogan of the hour and it is surprising what an array of talent has come to the surface along this line during the past twelve months. From governors of states, who wouldn't know a freight bill from a receipt for pew rent, to all sorts of writers on text-book political economy aided by Chautauqua orators, the atmosphere is loaded with wails about the injustice of soulless corporations and the great injustice suffered by the downtrodden masses.

"The fact never occurs to these people that the manufacturers and shippers of the country have no complaints to offer. They have discovered that railroads are common plunder for criticism and that the masses like to be told that they are oppressed. They have also discovered that such dense ignorance prevails concerning railroad rates that any statement made, however extravagant, is received as gospel truth.

"The governor of Wisconsin, during a campaign speech, accused an elevator company at New Richmond, in which State Senator Mosher is interested, of having received rebates to the extent of over $30,000, and many ignorant people believed it because the governor said it.

"What were the facts in the case? Simply these: Mr. Mosher, like every other miller in the state, is given a commodity rate which enables him to do business in Wisconsin. Deprived of this rate, every miller in the state would go out of business in less than 90 days, just as the factories fled from Iowa 25 years ago when a rate commission took control and enforced the granger law on railroad rates.

"Mr. Morris is right when he says that the best judges of the cost of railway operation are the men who are held responsible for results. The country is not suffering from railway oppression in any form, but on the other hand, is blessed by a railway service which is contributing largely to wealth and prosperity every year.

"The Rev. Enoch Peary, a Methodist divine of Milwaukee, says that the church can afford to neglect a prayer meeting for a primary. This is the kind of doctrine that should be more generally taught. The government of any city can be made good and kept pure if the good people will to have it so.

"The brewers and distillers of Missouri are boycotting the Kansas City Star because that journal supports Governor Folk in his effort to enforce the Sunday closing law. The Star shows an increase of business in spite of the boycott.

Chairman Shonts of the Panama Canal Commission, has decided that the 200,000 laborers need wholesome food more than medicine and arrangements are being made to supply the big ditch with free lunch counters.

For daily accidents and tragic deaths, the automobile beats any vehicle in use. There are plenty of people who can't drive a horse who feel confident to run an engine at sight.

Peace will be proclaimed before the meeting at Portsmouth adjourns. Russia has had enough of war and Japan is satisfied to quit.

PRESS COMMENT.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The "suspicions" of the Milwaukee grand jury have caused many of the people there to become suspicious of the grand jury.

Superior Telegram: The big Simpson tunnel through the Alps is having a big harvest of death. On Sunday thirty-two men were killed by accident.

Fargo Forum: Up in Cavalier a patent self-heating flat iron was put away in a closet without doing the fire. The fire brigade extinguished the conflagration.

Somerville Journal: If a man smiles and looks pleased when you pay him a compliment, pay him another one. In time you may be able to borrow money from him.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: State Senator Warnall of Clay county has raised 90 bushels of wheat to the acre this year, something he never did until the republicans carried Missouri.

Fond du Lac Reporter: As the act of a district attorney who is supposed to be doing his best to uphold and enforce the law the indictment of Mr. Pfister is a bare-faced perversion of the machinery of the law to political ends.

Sheboygan Journal: A plague of Green Bay flies visited Sheboygan Falls Wednesday night. They were well known to be Green Bay flies because each fly wore a celluloid button with its name and address.

Toronto World: Up to date geography will show the United States to be bounded on the west by the Pacific ocean, on the north by the Toronto exhibition, on the south by the yellow fever, and on the east by the peace conference.

Winneconne Local: Of course Bob was only blowing when he said he would like to hang that railroad nose. He was out of the state, where he had no jurisdiction to act as hangman, and he knew that there is no provision in Wisconsin for such an official.

Exchange: Emperor Wilhelm is now forty-six and he has been warlord in Germany for seventeen years without a war except for some little bush fighting which has occurred in Africa. But he has done an immense deal of talking during that period.

Eau Claire Leader: It is not every man who obeys his wife like the Chicago man did Friday. Mrs. Joseph Garon told her husband, "Oh, go jump in the lake and drown yourself." "All right," said Joe—and he did, leaving a nice little note, and a crying wife, who said she was "only joking."

Minneapolis Tribune: Two school teachers out in Spokane lost their lives in such an unnecessary manner by dashing in the water after a pet dog which had known how to swim all its life. If school teachers could only realize that some beings know how to do some things besides themselves.

Grand Forks Herald: The following newspaper tip for those who are pestered by mosquitoes is valuable if true: Throw a piece of alum the size of a marble into a bowl of hot water and wet the hands and exposed parts in it. Not a mosquito will touch you. They hum about and disappear.

Chilton Times: Bob La Follette would do a handsome thing if he would come out in an interview in "the only English Republican paper in Milwaukee" and say a good thing for William J. Bryan as a presidential candidate. It would kind of even up compliments and at the same time would be a correct statement.

Exchange: Not long ago a young society woman wrote to F. Marion Crawford, the author, requesting that he send her a bit of sentiment and his autograph. The reply was: "Dear Miss A.: When you request a favor that is of interest only to yourself please inclose a 2-cent stamp. There's your sentiment and here's your autograph.—F. Marion Crawford."

Atchison Globe: It is a pretty good sign that a man is the boss if he sits around home in the evening with his shoes and stockings off. A woman likes everything around her house to be neat, and a man's bare feet are built on such a plan that if they were scrubbed with soap, rinsed with rose water, powdered with rice flour, and a baby blue ribbon tied around each toe they wouldn't look neat in the parlor.

Kansas City Journal: Two men were disputing over their respective churches. Finally one called a neighbor who was passing and asked his opinion as to which was the only church in which to be saved. "Well," said he, "my son and I have hauled wheat to the same mill night on for forty years. Now, there are two roads that lead from our place to the mill—one the valley road, the other takes over the hill. And never yet, friends, has the miller asked me which road I took, but he always asks: 'Is your wheat good?'"

Chicago Chronicle: It is noted, apropos of Russell Sage's recent birthday celebration, that though the nonagenarian financier has piled up a great many millions nobody has felt called upon to attack him in the cheap magazines or to dig up any of his personal failings. Some observers are disposed to attribute Mr. Sage's immunity from this sort of thing to the fact that, unlike Mr. Rockefeller, he never has given away a cent in charity. According to this theory the man who tries to be a philanthropist becomes a target for malice and envy, while he who hoards his money escapes criticism. The theory is not particularly creditable to human nature, but the facts seem to bear it out.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Jane Addams, as mayor of Chicago, would have a hard row to hoe and would ultimately be obliged to resign, is the opinion of Mayor Duane, as expressed yesterday when asked for his comment on Justice Brewer's declaration that the woman settlement house worker would make an ideal chief executive. The mayor was discussing his favorite theme of municipal ownership when the subject was broached, but his knotted brow became wreathed in smiles as he said that Miss Addams wouldn't do.

"Um—no. I hardly think Miss Addams would be able to stand the strain of the position," said the mayor decidedly. "Now I am a strong healthy man, and I am just scraping through the ordeal of struggling with strikes, traction companies, and other municipal evils."

Baltimore Herald: It is apparent that the item of legal expenses in all insurance companies needs a rigorous examination. We know something of the way in which that item was inflated in the management of the Equitable, but other great companies make an even worse showing in comparison with their premium income. In 1902 the receipts of the Equitable from premiums were $58,837,890, the legal expenses $165,289. In the same year the premium income of the New York Mutual Life was $60,151,020, its legal expenses $247,004. Who were its Depewes and Hills? The premium income of the New York Life was $75,282,174, its legal expenses $254,750. Who got it? In contrast with these figures, there are six smaller companies with an aggregate premium income of $69,943,571—more than the Equitable—and the aggregate of their legal expenses was but $78,775—less than half the amount of the item for the Equitable.

The Golden Age.

Milwaukee Journal: This must be the golden age for America.

Trigg says that Rockefeller is as big a genius as Shakespeare.

Gunsauls says that Roosevelt is the only man of the time that matches the Man of Galilee for perfection.

Shepardson says that Elgin Root breaks even with George Washington in the matter of patriotism.

And there are, besides, Morton the whitewashed, and Loomis, the vindictive, and Lawson of Boston who, in the opinion of his publisher, has been raised up by the Lord to save the nation.

To be sure we have Chauncey Depew, the fallen peach, and Tom Platt with his wasted life. The Equitable stretch is still with us and graft is being discovered in every nook and cranny. The lid is off in Saratoga and various other places.

United States senators are indicted and convicted, and other men aspire to seats in the senate who ought to be indicted and convicted.

But what of that? Do we not still have our poets and writers like Bathhouse John and Henry James?

Our statesmen like Sullivan (Tim, not John L.) and Hearst? Our geniuses of trade—the Rockefeller, the Rogerses, the Ryans? Go to, then. This is the golden age—for the Rockefellerers of the country.

Should Eschew Politics.

Green Bay Gazette: The rate of Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco is another shining example of the laboring man in politics. A few years ago he was elected mayor of that city as the labor candidate and immediately sprung into national prominence in consequence. His term in office has been characterized as one of graft, but that may have been merely a claim put forth by his opponents. Certain it is that his control of San Francisco has been no more satisfactory than that of any other fair-minded man would have been. At the primaries this year, although again standing as a labor candidate, he was defeated by the "reform" element. The reason assigned for his defeat is that the labor element failed to take enough interest in the election to attend the primaries or to work for their avowed candidate.

There have been many such examples in American politics. It has frequently happened that a prominent union labor man has been nominated for a political office in the hope that he would carry with him the vote of the laboring element, but in the end disappointment has usually been the result. The reason is not hard to find. The laboring man will, as a rule, stand for his union principles even to martyrdom but he objects to having it made a tool of by any party or organization. The union labor leader will find the union man standing with him so long as it is necessary in the cause of labor, but when he leaves that and enters some other field such as politics he is to them a politician and not a union leader. The cause of labor unionism has thrived wonderfully in the United States during the past few years and is steadily growing stronger. Up to the present time this strength has been gained by a steadfast adherence to the principle of not mingling with politics. The union men are making a good fight under that principle and they should be satisfied to leave "well enough" alone.

MAKES REPORTS ON THE GROWING CROP

Secretary J. M. True of the State Board of Agriculture, Tells of Conditions.

Secretary J. M. True of the state board of agriculture today issued the following report on the condition of farm crops in Wisconsin:

Practically all of the small grain in the southern division of the state has been harvested, and much of it is already in stack. A large part of the oats now in shock will be thrashed without stacking. In the central and northern divisions probably 20 per cent of the oat crop is not yet harvested, on account largely of continuous rains. Some thrashing has already been done, and both yield per acre and quality of grain are generally satisfactory. This is especially true of the oat crop, which promises a large yield of heavy grain. The hot weather of the last month has brought the corn crop forward remarkably, and the promise of a full crop in the southern division of the state is now excellent. In the central and northern portions the crop was slow in starting and in many localities has not yet reached the normal stage of growth for this time in the season, while western counties in these divisions report satisfactory conditions. The matured crop as a whole depends much upon the weather we may have in September, but August indications are better than for several years past. Wisconsin's potato crop is not to equal that of 1904, but this in itself is not a matter of discouragement to the farmer, for last year's crop exceeded the demand and much of it was sold at a loss. Conditions have not been generally favorable for the potato crop this season. The stand is thin, the growth unsatisfactory, and many localities now report blight, liable to be followed by rot. Tobacco has grown nicely during the last month and harvesting of early fields has already begun. Much of the crop, however, is late and will need some weeks' time for maturing. Sugar beets are making a good growth and promise to be excellent, and the second growth of grass upon meadows is unusually rank. Apples have fallen badly, and not over one-half of a full crop will be harvested.

We estimate the present condition of growing crops in the state as a whole as follows: Corn, 87; potatoes, 85; pastures, 101; tobacco, 93; sugar beets, 95. Correspondents submit the following reports: Southern division—Corn, 83½; potatoes, 81; pastures, 100; tobacco, 95; sugar beets, 96; apples, 50. Central division—Corn, 81; potatoes, 80; pastures, 101; tobacco, 99; sugar beets, 95; apples, 50. Northern division—Corn, 80; potatoes, 80; pastures, 100; tobacco, 100; sugar beets, 100; apples, 50.

On account of the state fair work no report will be issued by Mr. True for September. In the October report it is hoped to give a close estimate of the yield per acre of the several grain crops of the state.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

The house is too noisy for comfort with a child in it, and too lonesome for comfort when the child leaves, so there you are.

When a woman is an amateur horse-back rider she appears to us as bad an advantage riding on the main street as an amateur singer in public.

There are some unreliable travelers, and some unreliable parents, but every person who goes to sea is sensible, and every little baby has colic.

When a man gets discouraged and commits suicide he thinks he has discharged his duty to his family by asking other relatives to "be good" to them.

A man died lately (so the story goes) and the doctor said the death was due to heart failure, but his wife said it was due to having people unnecessarily.

When we don't want to flatter a woman too much about her children we say they look like their father, and then she looks as if she ought to be pleased, and isn't.

An Atchison woman's answer to her friends' objections to her going away from home so much is that the only time her husband kisses her is when she takes a train.

There is a decided coolness between an Atchison man and his wife. In discussing the Bible the other day the woman said she believed the story that the whale swallowed Jonah and the one about Daniel in the lion's den, etc. The man is mad because she believes those big stories and will not believe the little ones he tells her.

A boy of 15 came in, threw his hat on the floor, kicked over a chair and growled that he wanted his dinner "and be quick about it." "You must excuse Reginald's manners," said his mother, to a caller. "He was sick when a child, and got spoiled." "Was he sick long?" said the visitor, expecting to hear of an illness lasting several years. "Oh, yes," replied the mother. "He had the measles ten days when he was 3."

Judge Is Severe on Betting. "Betting does more harm than drinking," said an English judge the other day as he sent to jail for four months a cigar dealer who had allowed his premises to be used for betting.

MARIETTA RAYMOND DEATH CLAIMS MRS.

Passed Away Shortly Before Noon, at the Home of Her Daughter, Mrs. David Conger.

Mrs. Marietta Raymond passed away shortly before noon today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Conger, at 215 Terrace street. The deceased was seventy-seven years old and the cause of her demise was paralysis. She was born in Vermont in 1828 and of late years has been making her home in Fond du Lac, but since last April she has been visiting Mrs. Conger. She is survived by four children, all of whom were present at the death-bed. They are Mrs. David Conger of Janesville, Mrs. C. S. Cook of Eau Claire, Ed Raymond of Fond du Lac and H. K. Raymond of Portland, Oregon. Mrs. Ed Raymond is also in the city, called here by Mrs. Raymond's illness. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock from the home of Mrs. Conger. Interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

SCHOOL MA'N'S BEAU NOT TOUCHED UPON

In Deliberations of the School Board Convention at the High School Today.

Members of school boards of the towns, villages, and hamlets of Rock county, which are included in Supt. Hemmingsway's district, and teachers to the number of about 150 gathered at the high school building today for the convention. Up to a late hour this afternoon no answer to the question: "Should the School Teacher Have a Beau?" had been attempted. Instead, Assistant State Inspector Borden talked at length on ventilation and the economical purchase of the right kind of materials for school use. He said that school rooms should not be air-tight boxes and that no one should expect to deliver foul air into the open without a heated column in the chimney. By diagrams he showed how these should be constructed. Where no such provisions existed he recommended the building of new chimneys on the outside of the structures. He also insisted that a metal jacket should be built around stoves forming a tight apartment with connections with the outside world, so that the heated air given off should not be the tainted air which had been breathed over and over again. With regard to expenditures he said that over half a million dollars was wasted in this state every year.

LITTLE OESTREICH GIRL WAS SCALDED

Tipped Over Pail of Boiling Soap-Suds on Right Arm and Side This Morning.

Three-year-old Dorothea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Oestreich, was the victim of a very painful and serious accident this morning. While playing about the kitchen she espied a pail on the gas-stove and started an investigation to discover the contents. In so doing she tipped a gallon or more of boiling soap-suds, a large quantity upon her right arm and side. She was very badly scalded but will recover.

HALF A HUNDRED WOMEN FROM ORFORDVILLE BEING ENTERTAINED HERE TODAY

Ladies' Society of Janesville Norwegian Lutheran Church Hostess of Out-of-Town Organization.

The Ladies' society of the Norwegian Lutheran church here today entertained the ladies' society of the Orfordville church of the same creed at the church on the corner of Madison and West Bluff street. About half a hundred women from out of the city were here for the occasion. A sumptuous dinner was served and a supper equally elegant will be spread this evening. The affair was a return for a reception tendered the Janesville society some time ago in Orfordville.

JANESVILLE MARKET REPORT

OFFICERS OF 13TH BOTH REELECTED

Norcross and Clark Retained by Veterans as President and Secretary of Regiment.

At the annual reunion of the old Thirtieth Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry held in the courthouse yesterday the officers of the veteran organization were re-elected for the ensuing year. Pliny Norcross being again chosen president and W. P. Clark of Milton secretary and treasurer. There are now between 325 and 350 survivors of the thousand who originally left Janesville for the front in 1862 and of these just one hundred and five participated in the celebration yesterday. The depletion of the old and revered body by death is now becoming rapid. In the past year a dozen comrades have joined the ranks beyond and the per cent of loss in the Thirtieth is equal to the per cent in all the regiments of Wisconsin, which in 1903 was 3 1/2. In 1904 5 1/2 and will be larger in all probability this year. Colonel Lyon, who commanded the regiment through the longest period of the war, is among the oldest of the regiment, being 81 years of age. To attend the reunion this year was much of an effort for him, having been retired for some

SEWER CAVE-IN ON CHATHAM ST.

Joe Miller and Wm. Denoyer Were Buried Up to Arms-Pit in Small Avalanche This Morning.

Joe Miller, a resident of River street, this city, and William Denoyer of Afton were partially buried in a sewer cave-in on Chatham street about 9:30 this morning and the whole crew at work in that locality labored a half hour digging them out. The accident was caused by the breaking of the sheeting, which was insecurely anchored. One of the men had his head caught and held as in a vice between two timbers. In the avalanche of sand and clay. When the ambulance arrived the two men were stretched out on an adjoining lawn and it was feared that bones had been fractured and serious internal injuries sustained. After an examination at the Palmer hospital, however, Dr. Loomis stated that the men had suffered nothing worse than severe muscle bruises. Miller will be able to return to his home this evening and Denoyer will not have to remain in the hospital more than two or three days. When the men reached the hospital a question arose as to whether or not they could be accommodated, all the rooms being taken with the exception of one reserved for a patient due there tomorrow. The cases were taken on condition that some different arrangements be made in case it should be necessary for them to remain overnight. Thus the city's crying need for emergency hospital appointments and the indifference of citizens to this need were again demonstrated.

LITTLE FOLKS GAVE DRAMA IN OPEN AIR

Under Direction of Joe Van Kirk Yesterday Afternoon and Evening—Production a Great Success.

After the fashion of the Ben Greer woodland players, a number of little people presented a drama in the open air at the Van Kirk home on Milon avenue yesterday afternoon and evening. The title of the play was "Dressing Up an Old Proverb in a Fashionable Gown" and it was staged under the direction of Joe Van Kirk, who also acted as mistress of the wardrobe. Margaret Allen took the part of "Mrs. Van Beekman" and Miriam Allen that of "Miss John Van Beekman." Isabel Tucker of Chicago portrayed "Miss Van Beekman" twenty years after. Paul Kemmet was "Mr. Gardner." Evelyn Kavelage, a maid; and Harwood Skelly, a clown. Other parts were taken by Herbert Allen, Nelson Van Kirk, George Kavelage, and Allen Dearborn. The play was taken from one of the Sunday newspapers and the older folks were patrons of the drama to the extent of about $4.00.

Otto Schieker and a party consisting of John Fisher, Al Smith, and a number of others left last evening for Mineral Point to inspect Mr. Schieker's mining property.

time and being quite feeble. He and Mrs. Lyon reside with their son and daughter in Edendale, California, and recently celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary there.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Birthday Party: Mrs. Nellie Franklin was pleasantly surprised by friends and relatives, Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nancy Finch, 59 Milton avenue, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. At the close of the day all assembled in the dining-room where an elaborate dinner was served. Mrs. Franklin was presented with a number of handsome gifts.

Want Former Janesville Man: Ted Sullivan, the baseball scout, is authorized for a statement that Joe Canfield, manager of the Milwaukee American Association team, is to be offered the management of the Washington American League team for 1906. It is known that Jake Stators, the present manager of the Senators, has been anxious to lay down the managerial reins for some time, although his handling of the Washington team has been highly successful and satisfactory to the directors of the Washington club.

Many Appointments: The following Rock county residents have been appointed delegates to the Farmers' Congress to be held at Richmond, Virginia, Sept. 12 to 15th, by Acting Governor Davidson: William Stevens of Janesville, Clinton Habbitt of Beloit, W. W. Gillies of Evansville, and W. H. Johnson of Bransville.

Shoot at Watertown: W. R. Williams, Charles Grotty, John Horn, William Buoh, and other members of the Badger Gun Club will attend the seventh semi-annual gold medal shoot and target tournament of the Watertown Gun Club to be held at Watertown on Sunday. The shoot will begin at 9:30 a. m.

They're Interested: "The people of Wisconsin are interested in the opening of the Flathead Indian reservation in Montana," said Charles Sloan of Janesville, in the Milwaukee Sentinel. "When the Rosebud agency opened a large number of Wisconsin people went out to get claims, but only a few were among the lucky ones to secure holdings of value. A large party was recruited at and near Madison, and a Wisconsin excursion was run out into that country. I understand that a similar project will be set on foot early in the spring next year, and it is altogether likely that an excursion train will be run over the Northern Pacific to accommodate all who want to try their luck again. There was too much confusion and uncertainty about the Rosebud drawing and I understand that the government will try and simplify this land lottery so far as the Flathead lands are concerned. I intend to go out if possible, for from all I can hear of that country the land is valuable and western Montana is a good place in which to live."

Not Public Park: Mrs. I. C. Sloan is much annoyed over the fact that a portion of her farm south of the city has been used for Sunday ball games. She gave several boys who live in the neighborhood permission to play, but knew nothing of the game reported played last Sunday until she read of it in the paper.

A Non-Union Strike: Several girls employed at the Marshall shoe factory have gone on a strike because one of their companion workers of less experience in the Janesville shop was advanced over their heads. None of the young ladies on strike are members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, all being under the age limit of the organization, and a new force of girls will be employed in their places.

BABY SHOW DATE IS NOW SETTLED UPON

September Thirtieth the Event Will Take Place in Central Hall.

Although arrangements for the Janesville Baby Show are not yet completed it is now an assured fact and September thirtieth has been set as the date. A committee of several women from the Central Methodist church is at work making preparations and they intend to offer prizes that will be excellent. Central hall has been secured for the place of holding the affair.

Concert at Norwegian Lutheran Church Friday Evening.

The Hoyt Concert Co. of Minneapolis will sing at the Norwegian Lutheran church tomorrow evening. This date being open, they will not charge the usual price of admission, 25c. Admission free. Collection taken. Come and hear a fine lyric tenor, Lutheran chorals and the cantata, "The Sermon on the Mount."

CHAPTER XVII.

ANOTHER glorious summer morning greeted the pilgrims at York; a morning so clear and splendid that it seemed to have lifted the gloom which covered the captured city, as the sun might dissipate a veil of mist. In spite of her fatigue of the day before Frances was the first to get up, and at this setting forth Armstrong and old John were the laggards, as she bitterly informed them when they appeared.

As they rode away from the ancient town the girl could scarcely refrain from joining the larks in their merriment, such a strange feeling of elation filled her being. She glanced sideways at Armstrong riding so easily on his splendid horse. What a noble looking youth he was, and how well his new attire became him! Again she glanced at him, and thus caught his gaze bent upon her. He smiled at her—was smiling when she turned her head.

"I can read your thoughts in your face," he said.

"Can you?" she asked in alarm.

"Yes. At first the pure sweet beauty of the morning appealed to you. You were glad to leave the shut in streets of the town and be once more in the fresh open country. The thought of your brother came to you, and the sunshine of your face died out in sorrow for him, wishing you had news of him. Do not be concerned for him. I have seen many a wound deeper than his and they were of small account with youth and health to contend against them."

The girl sighed and turned her face away, making no comment upon his conjectures, which were so far astray from accuracy. Why had she given no thought to her brother, whose welfare had never before been absent from her mind, yet who never before was in such danger as now? Why had a stranger's image come between them, so monopolizing her mental vision that all her pity had been for him? A helpless rage at the part assigned to her filled her heart with bitterness and her eyes with tears.

The young man saw that some strong emotion had overpowered her, against which all her struggles were in vain. Instant sympathy with her sorrow manifested itself in his action. He brought his horse close beside her, reached out and touched her hand.

"Dear heart, do not grieve," he said tenderly. "I pledge my faith your brother is better already. Have no fear about him. He'll be out and about by the time you are home again. But come, we have now a level road before us. Let us gallop. There's nothing so cheers the mind as a charge on a good horse. We will make old John stir his stumps."

They set off together, and old John did his best to keep them in sight. Some fourteen miles from York they baited their horses, then pushed on through Bawtry until Tuxford came in sight more than an hour and a half after midnight, a longer stretch than Armstrong thought good for either man or beast. It was not yet 5 in the morning when they left York, and with the exception of a bite and sup at their only halting place they had nothing to eat until 2 o'clock. Many of the numerous inns along the road were deserted and in ruins; the farther south the journey was prolonged the more evident became the traces of war, and Armstrong found that he had scant choice as to resting places.

"I hope," said the girl, who knew the road, "that the Crown at Tuxford has not been blown down again. It was a good inn."

"More chance of its being blown up," replied Armstrong flippantly. "Was it blown down once?"

"Yes, about half a century since, in a tempest, but it was rebuilt. You should have a kindly feeling for it."

"Why?"

"The Princess Margaret Tudor rested there in 1503, when she went to Scotland to marry your king."

"By my forefathers, then, the Crown is a place of evil omen for me. Would that the fair Margaret had slept in it on the night of the storm."

"And now I ask, why?"

"Because her son, James V., came down to the border, and by treachery collected the head of his clan, with about forty or more of his retainers, and hanged them, denying either trial or appeal. Jamie missed those two score men later in life, when his cowardly crew deserted him. We Armstrongs seem ever to have been a confiding race of simpletons, believing each man's word to be true as the steel at his side. Margaret was as false as fair, and a poor queen for Scotland, yet here am I now risking life or liberty for one of her breed, the descendant of those fell Stuarts who never honored woman or kept faith with man."

"St. what are you saying?" cried the girl, against the unbelieved confession into which his impetuosity had carried him.

"Did you may well ask?" said the young man, startled in his turn at the length he had gone. "Still, it does not matter, for you would be the last to betray me. I'll tell you all about it some day, and we will laugh over our march together, if you forget what I said just now. The end of our expedition is not to be the end of our acquaintance, I hope, and you live but a day's march from the border."

"I make no promise until we reach home again. Then you may not wish to make the journey."

"Little fear of that. I must see you again, if only to tell you of my luck in cattle dealing, at which you showed such scorn yesterday."

"Do not let us speak of that. There is the Crown Inn, and even if the shade of the Princess Margaret does not haunt it I am pleased to see there are people more substantial around its doors."

"It is level with the times. The crown is blotted from the signboard, although some of the old gilding shines through the new paint."

It was late in the afternoon before they were on horse again, and they jogged down the road at an easy amble. Newark was passed, but they did not stop there longer than was necessary to show their permission to travel for Newark had been a royal town, garrisoned for the king and besieged more than once. Armstrong had intended to stay the night there, but the authorities showed some reluctance in accepting a pass for two as convey for three, and it needed all the young man's eloquence and insistence on respect for Crownwell's signature to get old John past the barriers, so when once this permission was granted he thought it well to push on clear of the place and risk the danger of camping out beside the road.

His luck still stood his friend, and at Grantham, some ten miles farther on, as the sun was setting, they came to the ancient archway of the Angel.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE buskin lady of the Angel remembered Frances and her former visits to the inn, so she took charge of the girl in the most motherly way, fussing over her and seeing to her comfort.

It was late when Armstrong returned from the stables, for old John's pack horse showed signs of distress from traveling between seventy and eighty miles that day, and as the slowest horse in the party sets the pace, the animal had to be seen to and cared for.

After his bounteous supper the young man strolled about the rambling inn and to his surprise came upon a lonely figure in a dim alcove.

"Dear lass! he cried, "you should have been at your rest long ago. This will never do." But he sat down beside her. The place was narrow and very cosy, as if the oriel window recess had been constructed for two lovers.

"I am not tired," she said, "and have much to think of, so I knew I could not sleep."

"Oh, it can be done. They say Cromwell has the power of dropping to sleep the instant he gets half an hour to himself. He has plenty to think of, and yet he must be able to guide his thoughts or abolish them for the moment, or he could not do that. Is you like Cromwell?"

"I do not."

"You surprise me. I thought you were a partisan of his. You remember what I said when we were approaching this inn?"

"You said many things."

"Aye. But I said one in particular that I would have wished recalled if it had been said to any one but you. I promised to let you know all about it some day, but I've thought over the matter and I'm going to tell you now."

"No, no! I do not wish to hear."

"It is not fair to you that you should be exposed to an unknown scoundrel. This did not occur to me when I set out, but your journey may be jeopardized because of my being deeper in dangerous projects than you have any suspicion of. So I have need to tell you my real errand in the south."

"Mr. Armstrong, I refuse to hear you. I will not be burdened with what does not concern me. I asked you to think of the injustice of what you were about to do. If you are on some secret mission, there are others besides yourself involved. It is most unfair to them that you should make a confidant of any person without their consent."

"You say sooth. If you take my hint and promptly disown me should I become involved, I am satisfied."

"I can the more readily disown you if I know nothing of the traffic you are engaged in."

The two were startled by a deep voice that broke in upon their discourse. They had heard no one approach, but now there stood before them at the outlet of the recess a tall, gaunt figure in the somber garb of the parliamentarian, as if he were the spirit of some forgotten Templar of whom they had just been speaking—indeed, he seemed the modern embodiment of one of that fanatic, sinister band, for while his bearing betokened the fervid exhorter, a sword by his side indicated that he used the physical as well as the spiritual arm. His cheeks were sunken, and a two days' stubble on his chin emphasized not only the emaciation of his face, but the unhealthy clay color of his skin.

"A word with you. Who are you?"

"Egad," muttered Armstrong under his breath, "here's a father confessor indeed, and right willing to take on the task with no misgiving."

The girl wondered how long the apparition had been standing there and rapidly ran over in her mind what had been said between herself and her companion since he came. Armstrong spoke up and, while speaking, proffered his pass to the interloper.

"Sir, that document will possibly satisfy all your questionings." The stranger, taking it, held it near the lamp and read its brief wording.

"This answers none of my questions except, and then by inference only, that you are perchance destined for Oxford."

"Is not the signature sufficient passport, so long as you do not find us south of Oxford or north of Carlisle? We are within the region over which the passport extends."

"For the second time I propound my inquiries."

"Then for the first time I return them to you. Who are you? Whence come you? Whither are you bound, and to what purpose?"

The man answered without the slightest show of resentment against what he must have known to be an intended impertinence.

"I am Ezekiah Benton, a humble preacher of the word, and, if need be, a wielder of the sword. I come from Newark and purpose returning thither, God willing, with more knowledge concerning you than you gave when you passed the gate. If you are entitled to hold this pass, you will meet no opposition within its limits. As no persons are named upon this paper, it is my duty to satisfy my superiors that it is not misused."

"Pardon me, Mr. Benton, but has it not occurred to your superiors that if General Cromwell had wished the names known he would have set them down as fully as his own?"

Ezekiah thoughtfully scratched his stubble chin and was evidently nonplussed by the view so calmly presented to him. After turning the problem in his mind for a few moments, he replied:

"Nevertheless you are traveling on the London road. This pass reads Carlisle to Oxford. Newark is not on the highway between these two towns."

"Admirably reasoned, Mr. Benton, and I envy those who have opportunity of hearing your discourses. They listen to good logic, I stand warrant. But the apparent mystery is soon dissolved. This paper was written by his excellency at Corbion Manor. In the county of Durham, at about this hour of the night three days ago, what time, if I may so put it, I was the guest of his excellency at that place. If you will bear the county of Durham instead of the county of Northumberland in mind, you will observe I have taken the quickest route to Oxford, when the state of cross country roads is considered. So far as the London direction is concerned, we deflect from it tomorrow at Stamford and will rest, God permitting us, at Northampton tomorrow night."

"Sir, your disquisition is most complete and satisfactory. If but a title of it had been given at Newark I would have been saved a hurried journey and you a cross examination. I give you good night, and God be with you."

Frances rose also when their visitor had taken himself off.

"You are something of a diplomatist, Mr. Armstrong, but I fear diplomacy requires a touch of hypocrisy. Your account of another man's pass did not seem strictly accurate."

"It was true nevertheless. Every word I said was true. I never even hinted the pass belonged to me."

The girl laughed and held out her hand.

"Yet you cannot deny that he gathered a wrong impression."

"Ah, that was his fault, not mine. But I will be honest with you and admit at once that had a direct falsehood been necessary I would have used it. I was determined not to give him any name, for the pass I hold from Cromwell set Manchester as the limit, and we are now south of Manchester. I would have given Benton my name at York, but not at Grantham."

New Time Killer.

Herreshoff Motor Boat, the Den, Goes Forty Miles an Hour.

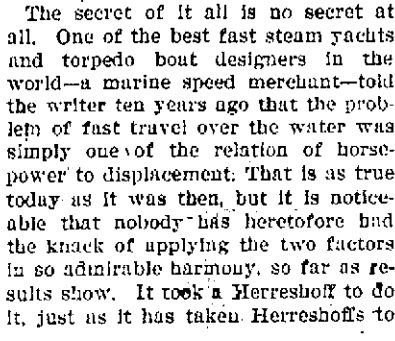

Of course it was up to a Herreshoff to produce marine speed, but even the Herreshoff limit has been taken off apparently in the production of a craft capable of being driven at fifty miles an hour, if all that is claimed is true of the mahogany craft that bears the letters "D-E-N" on each side of its bow.

Moreover, the preliminary trial, the first spin of the fier, made under conditions not at all favorable and with no idea of a rigid test, indicates that a Herreshoff, as usual, is making no idle statement in rating his new water negotiator well up with modern rail-road limited trains.

This latest fier, not the first venture of the Herreshoffs into the motor, built by any means, is assured by her constructor, Charles F. Herreshoff, Jr., of a speed of forty miles an hour. This statement was made not from a review of the scratchings on a trestle-board, but after the wily constructor had taken his feet out for a spin. It is significant, and also very "Herreshoff," that the spin was conducted as far out of the sight of prying eavesdroppers armed with clocks as might be. But a watch held surreptitiously on the agile Den recorded a speed of more than forty miles an hour during a portion of the trip.

Forty miles an hour is better than thirty-five knots, which is in turn better than anything that floated previously to the new craft has accomplished. There is not the slightest doubt that this wonderful boat is incapable of forty measured miles in a full timed hour, but if she did that gain for a minute she is the boss fier and queen of motor boats or any other kind of craft.

The secret of it all is no secret at all. One of the best fast steam yachts and torpedo boat designers in the world—a marine speed merchant—told the writer ten years ago that the problem of fast travel over the water was simply one of the relation of horsepower to displacement. That is as true today as it was then, but it is noticeable that nobody has heretofore had the knack of applying the two factors in so admirable harmony, so far as results show. It took a Herreshoff to do it, just as it has taken Herreshoffs to work out, along lines as well understood, the problem of supplying the fastest sailer on a given racing length.

Assuredly a freak, and of the freakiest, the Den is the lightest boat that ever held so much bottled up power. Her beam is less than five feet on a length of thirty-five. Her displacement may be seen at a glance to be of the lightest possible, as her midship section plainly shows. Her draft is only seven inches.

In construction the planking is of sheet pine, three-sixteenths of an inch thick, inside of a skin of mahogany. The motor weighs less than 300 pounds. It has four cylinders and develops ninety-eight horsepower. It runs practically without vibration, and even when the heavy clutch starting the propeller is thrown in there is practically no strain upon the frail craft.

The motor rests upon a platform of aluminum in the bow and is concealed by a hood, which protects the helmsman and allows room for one other. The bronze propeller is nineteen inches in diameter and has four blades. It runs so close to the surface that it raises a misty foam at the stern. The heavy motor and gasoline tank, carrying fifty gallons, serve to steady the craft. The exhaust is into the air instead of under-water, so the discharges sound like the firing of a Gatling gun.

A Great Racer, Maybe.

An automobilist wearing a pair of goggles having two separate lenses for each eye attracted attention on a road house porch, and one man had the courage to ask for an explanation. It was as follows: "Why, you see, when one is driving the way I drive the sand and very small stones are thrown up with great force. If one sails for my eye it may break the first lens, but then is deflected, and the inner lens saves my eyes." The listeners wondered what famous racing man he was and followed him gapefully when he walked to the hotel shed and there cranked up his engine and started away in a seven horsepower runabout.

SNAPPING CABLE CAUSES PANIC

Suspension Bridge Over Lake at Springfield, Ill., Breaks in Two.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—Without the slightest warning the suspension bridge across the lake at Mildred Park gave way Wednesday afternoon, precipitating fifty young men, women and children into the water, which at that point is twelve feet deep. Owing to the fact that one of the cables did not break, thus keeping the bridge from sinking, no one was drowned. All those who were thrown into the water clung to the sides of the bridge until they were taken off in boats. The retail clerks of the city were giving their annual picnic at the park and there were 3,000 people on the grounds. The accident created a panic, and it was some time before the crowd was quieted. The accident was due to the breaking of a cable.

Bellboy Leads Officers to Place Where Loot Is Hidden.

South Haven, Mich., Aug. 17.—After an all-night session with Chief of Police McGregor and the Pinkerton detective from Chicago, Joseph Wagner, the Avery Beach hotel bell boy, confessed to stealing $1,000 worth of jewelry and money and took the officers to the place where the money and jewels were hidden. Mrs. N. Kaufman, of Seymour, Ind., who lost the jewels and money, refused to prosecute after the stolen property had been returned and the case was dismissed. Wagner was immediately arrested on a charge of grand larceny and bound over to the October term of court. Wagner claims his address as Chicago.

DOULBE TARIFF PLAN IN FAVOR

New Issue Is Sprung Upon the National Reciprocity Conference.

DINGLEY RATES AS MAXIMUM

Present Schedule as Basis, With Reduction of 20 to 25 Per Cent for the Minimum Seems to Be the General Scheme.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 17.—"Double tariff" with the present Dingley rates as the maximum and a 20 to 25 per cent reduction for the minimum represents the revision idea which will find expression in the final action of the national reciprocity conference.

While the work of starting the new idea was in progress the delegates were endeavoring to uncover some of the enemies of tariff revision whom they believe to be operating from secret places. An alleged emissary of Secretary Clark of the Boston Home Market club was sent from the conference for endeavoring to spread sedition in the form of pamphlets.

Sensors and Others Scored.
This emissary and the United States senate were the only enemies the delegates could get at in the open. Having ousted the "hiring" of the Boston "stand pat" organization, the delegates pounded the senate to the best of their vigor, belaboring the senators as the servants of the trusts.

Senators Hopkins of Illinois, Lodge of Massachusetts, and Aldrich of Rhode Island were made the special targets for the attack of the reciprocity promoters.

In addition to these enemies in the open, the delegates paid their respects, but not from the platform, to Secretary Wilson and Secretary Shaw as opponents of the tariff revision they are endeavoring to encourage. At the same time they took occasion to explain that the packers are not responsible for the conference, "nailing" this as one of the stories started by their opponents.

Cullum Is a Figure.
Senator Cullum, in distinction from his associates in the United States senate, was given a place of consideration in the conference and made one of the significant speeches of the session, declaring himself in favor, first, of reciprocal treaties, but, if being impossible to secure them, then in favor of the "double tariff" idea the conference is promoting.

Harmony of action and unanimity of thought seemed to be dominant, although there was plenty of indications that trouble could break loose on specific questions if the delegates got down to details.

The manufacturers and importers were insisting, while the resolution committee was busy with the platform, that the cattlemen should abandon their position on hides. The stock raisers started an uproar the moment a reduction on hides was suggested.

The resolutions committee, with E. N. Foss, of Boston, as chairman, found itself able to proceed without serious controversy. The reciprocity treaty idea had given way early to the double tariff proposition, and the committee had no difficulty in deciding in favor of a new tariff schedule with maximum and minimum rates, it being possible to secure this by act of congress and without a two-thirds vote of the senate.

One Hard Question.
The committee found its chief difficulty in deciding on the form of permanent organization, but probably will recommend that a general executive committee be appointed to carry on the work. There are objections to a more formal organization.

A proposition to change the name of the organization and drop "reciprocity" from the title, as it has been dropped from the purposes of the conference, may cause a contest. Delegates who oppose this change in name believe that to drop "reciprocity" would be to lose some of the advertising which the organization has secured as a "reciprocity conference."

TWELVE KILLED IN QUARRY ROCKSLIDE

Thousands of Sons of Limestone, Looened by Recent Rains, Entombed Twenty-seven Workmen.

Allentown, Pa., Aug. 17.—Twelve men were killed and six injured in a rockslide at the quarry of mill "A" of the Lehigh Portland Cement company at Ormrod Wednesday. All were foreigners. Two of the injured will die.

The heavy rains had softened the surrounding earth and a mass of limestone, weighing thousands of tons, slipped from the side of the quarry. Twenty-seven men were at work, and but nine escaped death or injury.

Two men who saw the side of the quarry shiver shouted a warning. The men misinterpreted the calls and failed to move until it was too late.

All the men from five neighboring quarries set to work to extricate the unfortunates. The rescuers used block and tackle, crowbars, hydraulic jacks, and pitchforks to remove the stone.

Six men were found huddled in one place, four standing and two lying down. Three were alive, but one died before he could be gotten out. Five physicians were summoned, and the injured were taken in wagons to the Allentown hospital.

Eight bodies were recovered. Two more were exposed to view and two others buried deep in the pit.

GREAT GUN SHOOT FOR THE MILITIA

It is To Be Held Very Shortly Under the Auspices of the Government.

From the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, William Wolff Smith, secretary, the following communication has been received:

Washington, D. C.—What will undoubtedly be the most important series of rifle matches ever held in the United States will take place at Sea Girt, New Jersey, from August 24th to September 9th, inclusive. It will be a joint affair under the auspices of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, the National Rifle Association of America and the New Jersey State Rifle Association. A large number of teams and rifle clubs will be in attendance and it is expected that at least one thousand marksmen, expert with the United States army rifle, will compete for the various prizes. Advices to date show that the following teams will be entered in the national match: U. S. Cavalry, U. S. Navy, U. S. Infantry, U. S. Marine Corps; and teams from the National Guard of the following states: Pennsylvania, Georgia, Massachusetts, South Carolina, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, California, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Idaho, Utah, Delaware, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, New York, Vermont, Ohio, Mississippi, Maine, Florida, Wisconsin, Oregon, West Virginia, North Dakota, Washington and the District of Columbia. Teams from the Military Academy at West Point and the Naval Academy at Annapolis will also compete in this match. All the above teams will probably compete in the match for the Dryden trophy which is in charge of the New Jersey State Rifle Association.

To accommodate the visiting teams a street forty feet wide will be staked out, beginning in the rear of the one thousand yard firing point and extending west. Each state will be assigned five conical wall tents and two wall A tents, their positions being in the order of the states' admission to the union, beginning on the right. On the left will be the affiliated clubs of the National Rifle Association and on their left will be the camp of the battalion of the 23d Infantry which will be in attendance to mark and score. The camp of the range officers will be near the clubhouse.

The executive officer of the meeting will be General W. P. Hall, U. S. A., one of the members of the National Board of Promotion of Rifle Practice. The Post Adjutant will be Capt. Rhodes of the general staff, while Lieut. Albert S. Jones, secretary of the National Rifle Association, and two army officers will act as statistical officers. Capt. Alvin H. Graff, 1st regiment, New Jersey National Guard, will act as Post Quartermaster and Capt. Hof as Ordnance Officer.

The meetings will not be lacking in social features. A majority of the members of both the senate and house committees on military affairs have signified their intention of being present and numerous other guests are expected, many of whom will be accompanied by ladies. The senators and representatives will be quartered at the Beach House, a comfortable hotel adjoining the grounds. The state of New Jersey maintains a summer cottage for the governor at Sea Girt and Governor Stokes and his staff will be there during the meeting. A full military band will be in attendance which will give two concerts daily in a large marquee tent near the clubhouse, one during the noon hour and the other during the evening. As Sea Girt is only a few miles from Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and numerous other watering places along the coast, a large number of visitors are expected. The rifle teams will arrive on the 19th and 20th. This will enable them to get some preliminary practice on the 21st, 22d and 23d and two additional days' practice as individuals by entering the national individual match which will be shot on the 24th and 25th.

One of the most interesting features of the meeting will be the contest between the affiliated rifle clubs for the inter-club championship of the United States. There are now seventy-five rifle clubs affiliated with the National Rifle Association and probably half of these will be represented in this match. It is expected that there will be no less than five hundred entries in the president's match for the individual championship of the United States. This match is open to all members of the army, navy, marine corps, naval reserve and state militia, or national guard. The winner will hold the military championship for one year and will receive the championship medal accompanied by an autograph letter from President Roosevelt. A prize of $50 goes with the above and there are seven other cash prizes in this match. The recognition accorded this match by President Roosevelt has made it of as much importance in this country as the king's match in England, which was attended this year by King Edward, who personally presented the medal to the winner.

Another interesting feature will be the cadet match shot for the first time. After much effort the National Board secured teams from Annapolis and West Point and teams from Princeton and Cornell have also entered. The winning team will hold the "Cadet Cup" presented by the National Rifle Association for one year. There are no cash or individual prizes in this competition which is strictly between universities. It is hoped this contest will evoke so much friendly rivalry between the schools that rifle clubs will be formed at most of the leading universities and the contest grow in interest from year to year. The range at Sea Girt has been placed in perfect condition and although there will be twice as many teams competing as ever before, no trouble is anticipated.

A Girl "Phenom."

Isabella Buck of Manchester, N. H., a Notable Athlete. Her Exploits.

"With the right kind of training she would be a worthy rival to some of the best men athletes of the present day." This is the verdict of celebrated Mike Murphy, Yale's former athlete trainer, regarding Miss Helen Isabella Buck, daughter of M. E. Buck, former superintendent of schools of Manchester, N. H. She is a well built girl and stands today as the athletic premiere of the world.

In the games at Mount Holyoke college, at South Hadley, Mass., where she was graduated this year, she won four out of six events and hung up a new record of winning twenty-four out of a possible thirty points.

Miss Buck isn't a bit mannish. She doesn't wear spectacles or affect masculine attire. In fact, she is just one of those American girls that set a man's heart beating a trifle faster when they come into view. Her hair is becomingly arranged, her dress is all fluffs and frills, her little feet are shod in the daintiest of shoes, and her tiny white hands show no signs of hard work.

Yet this same girl holds the record for putting the shot 32 feet 3 inches, which would put to shame the average man, and she can throw the baseball—how many women can—157 feet 9 inches, and there are few men who can do it.

And now she has made monkeys out of the men who are the athletic idols of their respective universities in the way of scholarship and intellectual endeavor.

While Miss Buck has taken a course of physical training at Mount Holyoke, it has been nothing out of the ordinary. It was the same that all the girls have taken—the regular course of prescribed physical culture. The secret of her success was really due to her thorough training by methods which she originated herself.

The day of the athletic meet of the Mount Holyoke college girls was the great event of the fast closing collegiate year.

There were six events on the programme—the fifty yard dash, the seventy-five yard dash, the running broad jump, putting the shot, throwing the baseball and the hurdles. The total points were 48—5 for first, 3 for second and 1 for third. Of these no single competitor could make more than thirty by winning all six firsts.

And Miss Buck got twenty-four! In a word, she scored something in all six events, winning four of them, getting second in another and third in the remaining one. All told, the seniors scored 31 and won the meet. Of these only a pitiful 5 points were carried off by other members of her class. It was Helen Buck first and the rest nowhere.

She won in the fifty and seventy-five yard dashes and throwing the baseball and putting the shot. She was second in the hurdles and third in the running broad jump.

These were her records: Fifty yard dash, 6.15 seconds; seventy-five yard dash, 10.15 seconds; putting the shot, 32 feet 3 inches; throwing the baseball, 157 feet 9 inches; fifty yard hurdles, 8.25 seconds; running broad jump, 12 feet 6 inches.

The veteran, Mike Murphy, saw her perform, and it was then that he remarked he would guarantee she could equal the average man in athletics if she went into regular training.

Then she went back to her studies. But this is not all. Basket ball is Mount Holyoke's strongest point. In her freshman year it was very plain that Miss Helen Buck, '05, was a star player, and she was put on the class team. She played left forward for four years, and her graceful and accurate throwing is a tradition at the college. She had time, too, to coach other teams, and her proudest boast is that she had a hand in making the 1906 team the greatest women's organization of its kind in the country.

McCoy Wants Turf Fame.
Fugelist Kid McCoy has started a racing stable. Although the purchase of Pamelia for $1,200 out of the lot of horses sold by the Whitney estate was made by his brother, Homer Selby, both the former middleweight champion and his prospective bride, Mrs. Lillian E. Ellis, the heiress of the Ellis millions, have admitted that the "boy" was for them. "I am not going to buy many horses this season," said McCoy. "Next year I may expand some."

Rebuke For Her Ignorance.
A kindergarten teacher took for her object lesson one morning a puppy pet, the cat. She began thus: "Now, who can tell me what the kitten has, feathers or fur?" For some time there was silence, but finally a tiny boy from the rear said in a slow, loud voice: "G-o-o-d, l-a-w-d, hadn't you never seen a kitten?"

MINING EXPERTS DO NOT CONTROL

Director Walcott of the United States Geological Survey Declares There Was No Wrong-Doing.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The official silence surrounding the case of the Mining World of Chicago and its many contributors and stockholders on the roster of the United States geological survey was broken in a telegram received from Director Walcott from Montana.

Mr. Walcott says: "The geological survey or its members has not and do not own or control the Mining World. No information has been sold or given in advance of general publication to any journal or individual to my knowledge. The request to nominate competent writers for the Mining World made to Dr. Day for the purpose of making a first class western mining journal was approved by the director subject to the survey regulation that the Mining World was to be treated exactly as all other journals in all matters pertaining to the survey."

"A fraction of the stock of the Mining World was subscribed for as a purely private matter by some members of the survey. If anyone has evidence of wrong-doing or injudicious action on the part of any member of the geological survey the director asks that it be sent to the President, the Secretary of the Interior, the chairman of the committee appointed by them to investigate the business methods of the government or to the directors."

Big Exhibit and Sale of $30,000 Worth of

RARE ORIENTAL RUGS

Sale Begins on Friday, Aug. 18th, Ending Positively Wednesday, Aug. 23d.

WE announce to the public that Mr. Meledonian, the Armenian expert in rare rugs, will begin his exhibition and sale Friday, August 18th, in our Carpet Room. All lovers of Oriental Rugs should be attracted by this showing of absolutely hand-made guaranteed Rugs—products of the Far East—and make good this opportunity afforded them, to talk direct to a man who has made this interesting subject a life study. Mr. Meledonian has been continuously associated with the Rug industry from childhood and can answer any inquiry concerning the various weaves from the many rug producing villages throughout the Oriental countries, and can acquaint you with the conditions under which a rug has been woven, how it reflects the personal history of the patient maker; how his hopes and fears are woven into its curious, hap-hazard designs and colors. Even to those who value them more as articles of merchandise than objects of art, which they are, their beauty is fascinating.

If you are interested, either as a possible purchaser or for the mere seeing of this unusual gathering, you are cordially welcome.

Double Premium Purchase Tickets given until Sept. 1st.

A $2.00 Ticket for $1.00 in trade.

Tickets discontinued after September 1st.
